

Extension of the tax tolerance threshold between Luxembourg and Belgium

On 31 August 2021, a meeting of the Luxembourg and Belgian governments was held in Luxembourg, co-chaired by Prime Ministers Xavier Bettel and Alexander De Croo. It was agreed to continue to promote and facilitate teleworking for Belgian cross-border workers.

Then, as from 2022, a Belgian cross-border worker will thus be able to work for 34 days (instead of 24 days currently) outside the Grand-Duchy while remaining liable for tax at 100% in Luxembourg. It could therefore be days spent working from home, but days spent outside Luxembourg for any reason should also be taken into account in this quota: teleworking, training, client meetings, etc.
